CANCER

Jo's Cervical Cancer Trust is the 'go to' place for all cervical cancer screening information. The website has a unique feature called 'BrowseAloud' which allows users to select their preferred language and offers support by translating whole web pages at the click of a button.

It can also read the content out loud where there is a supporting voice available. BrowseAloud can currently translate into 36 of the most widely spoken languages in the world.

Simply log onto the home page and select this symbol from the information bar at the top.

Jo's Cervical Cancer Trust have also produced short videos on cervical screening in other languages. These videos explain in detail who's invited, what's involved, what people can expect at each stage and how they will be informed of their results. At present they are only available in the languages listed below. All of the videos have English subtitles for use with groups that are bilingual.

Click the buttons below to access each resource.

Jo's Cervical Cancer Trust website also have great videos on cervical screening and cervical cancer including 'What it's like to go for cervical screening (smear test) and how they will be given their results during Covid 19.
